Large reconditioned conical spotlight from East German era

€950 + tax

These East German adjustable spotlights were probably made in the 1960s and 1970s. They were usually used indoors and out on cranes and crabs to light up working areas. The adjustable mounting shackle is attached with brass wing nuts to a small metal dome positioned on the body. The glass disk is mounted in a cast aluminium ring secured by quick-release catches. The internal E40 socket (E27 adapter available) is surrounded by a polished reflector for efficient lighting. The appearance of the thin metal cone, which may contain scratches and dents, has been enhanced by black powder-coating. All metal parts have been polished to a high sheen. These spotlights can be suspended or wall-mounted.
