Square Wooden Table

We have managed to salvage a large batch of railings produced in the 1920s. These railings consisted of steel tubes screwed together using cast iron connectors. On seeing this design, we were inspired to apply it to furniture - and one of the first results is this table. We stripped the paint from the cast iron and steel elements before brushing and powder-coating them. The beech tabletop is 7.5 cm (2.5") thick and was taken from a work bench dating back to the 1920s. It has been treated with linseed oil.
